Beiseker Young People Attend Vacation College

BEISEKER. — Fourteen young people of St. Mary's parish, Beiseker, are attending a Vacation College which is being held at Macleod this week.

The program for the week of the Leadership School is a carefully balanced schedule and has been arranged to give the young people a week of spiritual, mental and physical refreshment.

The parishioners of St. Mary's church in Beiseker are proud of the fact that their parish priest, Rev. A. E. Tennant has again been selected as one of the lecturers.

Mornings and afternoons will be largely taken up with lectures while the evenings will feature well and carefully planned entertainment. On Sunday, July 30, the group will travel to Waterton lakes as a climax to a week well spent.

On Saturday evening as part of the entertainment, the Beiseker CYO will present their play "Two Crooks and a Lady" which was the prize-winning play in the drama festival for southern Alberta last spring.

Those attending this school from Beiseker are: Vera Schmaltz, Pauline Schmaltz, Viola Meldinger, Rose Marie Wald, Marie Hagel, Donna Velker, Bernice Selzler, Peter Schmaltz, Leonard Hagel, Wendel Schmaltz, Francis Lemay, Matt Oberhofer, Albert Krenzler and "Slim" Sander.

Transportation to Macleod was supplied by Tony Sander, Peter Schmaltz and Rev. A. E. Tennant.

Heavy Rains Hit Rockyford District

A cloudburst hit the Rockyford district about 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 19. In less than half an hour 1.35 inches of rain fell. The culverts on the west side of the highway were unable to hold all the flood waters, thus some basements were flooded. The centre of the storm was at the Albert Epe farm where 2 1/4 inches of rain fell within half an hour. Some hail accompanied this storm but no severe damage was done.

Vivian Verhaest Wed To Donald Kennedy

BEISEKER. — On Saturday, July 22, a very pretty wedding took place at St. Mary's church, Beiseker, when Vivian Verhaest, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Verhaest, Beiseker, became the bride of Donald Kennedy, only son of Mrs. Andrews' Kamloops, B.C.

Rev. A. E. Tennant officiated at the marriage ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a train-length gown of white lace over satin, fitted bodice with nylon yoke, long lily-point sleeves, and her long veil was worn cap fashion edged in lace. She carried a white prayer book topped with pink roses and white carnations and rose-knotted streamers.

She was attended by her sister, Bernice, who chose a blue lace gown over blue satin, rose picture hat, and carried a basket of roses in complementing shades.

The bridegroom was attended by Leonard Schmaltz. The guests were ushered to their places by Carl L. Schmaltz and Emmett Feser.

The senior choir was in charge, and Miss Bella Kennedy, Calgary, aunt of the bridegroom rendered several beautiful hymns.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Memorial hall for 65 close relatives and friends. A beautiful three-tiered wedding cake centred the bride's table. Mr. Emmett Feser proposed the toast to the bride.

The happy couple are honeymooning at Banff and other points.

For going away the bride donned a pink suit topped by a grey shortie coat and accessories in pink. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy will make their home in Calgary.

New Trench Diverts Beiseker Creek

BEISEKER. — The Andrew Schmaltz estate and J. H. Schmaltz have diverted the creek by digging a trench 1/2-mile long and 20 feet wide, and in some places as deep as nine feet, starting east of the new highway bridge and running over to old Adam Schleppe farm, and joining the creek there again, thereby shortening the creek to about one-third, which will better the drop, and drain the water from the town in case of an overflow due to spring floods.

Writer Lauds Community Publ'ns As Papers of Outstanding Contrast

Dear Editor—This letter is to express the appreciation my wife and I feel for the excellent quality of the newspapers of Community Publications of which we are constant readers.

It is indeed refreshing to be able to pick up a newspaper in which clean, constructive news may be found upon every page. We cannot but note the contrast your publication presents in this regard compared with the majority of papers being published in this country. Why is it that so many editors seem to believe that all their readers are interested in is murder, accident, robbery, tragedy, immorality—what a mess of stuff to grovel around in!

People in this day and age live under great stress—and most of us are not in need of having emphasized to us that many saddening and tragic things do take place.

Yet we also know that these things are not what we want our children to pattern in their lives, nor what we wish to experience ourselves! Therefore I say, "All credit to the South Edmonton Sun and its sister newspapers of Community Publications" for giving us a newspaper which we can safely welcome into our homes and put in our children's hands, knowing that therein we will find the emphasis placed upon the decent and the trustworthy, and character-building events in the daily history of our villages, towns, cities and our country.

After all, our society cannot function unless people are trustworthy and dependable. The very fabric of our nation depends upon the rightdoing and honesty of each and every one of us—I trust the driver of the train, bus or plane I ride upon with my life. I trust the bank when I give them my savings to keep in trust for me. I trust the teachers of my children to give them good training in character as well as good intellectual training. I trust the engineer who designed the bridge or the elevator I must use daily, and the workmen who honestly set the rivets or wove the cables.

Since these things are true, then the right greatly outweighs the rotten spots in society—and people are certainly more interested in hearing about the constructive and the innumerable decent things taking place all around us constantly than they are in hearing everlastingly dinned into our ears about the rotten and his deplorable doings.

May the news editors of our daily papers and our radio stations read the South Edmonton Sun, and ponder these things, and mend their views of what is NEWS!

In this connection, I wish to express a word of sincere appreciation for your reporters and country correspondents, who are filling your columns with constructive news items about the people and events in the communities where they live. It is a splendid service they are rendering in this regard and I wish more newspaper men exercised the same clear-headed discrimination and sound judgement your people are using about what is worthwhile news.

In conclusion, as a South Edmonton resident I wish to thank you for the service your South Edmonton Sun is performing in bringing to the attention of the city authorities needed improvements and reforms in their administration of our city government.

Your services in this connection illustrates what a great power for betterment the press can exert when controlled by those who emphasize the positive rather than the negative in their columns.

Sincerely yours,
STANLEY H. CHURCHILL,
South Edmonton.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Editor appreciates these words of encouragement, and trusts that we will be worthy of the tributes expressed.

MORE SEPARATING CAPACITY

Than Any Other Thresher on the Market

the Keck-Gonnerman Thresher

... for 75 years the Farmer's Dependable Friend!

Almost four decades of experience in building dependable equipment for farmers has been put into the construction of the new Keck-Gonnerman Thresher... with the result that this thresher has exclusive construction features which are readily appreciated by the experienced farmer.

Study These Exclusive Advantages:

- 12 foot feeder carriers that are adjustable to any desired height from 36" to 74" merely by turning an adjusting crank.
- Feeder governed by fly-ball speed governor and volume control governor.
- All necessary adjustments for good threshing can be made while machine is in operation.
- Furnished with 12 bar cylinders on 28x48 and smaller machines and 15 bar cylinders on 28x50 and larger machines.
- Cylinder and blower shaft mounted on double row, self-aligning ball bearings.
- Equipped with 2 beaters for more efficient operation.
- Adjustable traveling rake chain back of cylinder elevates straw over separating grate and helps to distribute straw evenly onto racks. The rake chain added to the large concave and grate area gives the Keck-Gonnerman thresher the largest separating area of any machine on the market.
- Straw racks are divided and are evenly balanced, practically eliminating vibration of the machine.
- Six rows of steel lifting fingers operate up and down 215 times per minute while the rack moves back and forth at the same speed. The fingers toss the straw upward, tear it apart, and shake out any remaining grain.
- Heavily constructed channel and angle-iron frame put together with hot rivets. Frame will remain rigid after years of use.
- Blower shaft equipped with bull horns placed in position to auger and force a steady stream of straw into the blower. Practically impossible to choke blower.
- Full width door in rear permits sieves to be changed with minimum of time and effort.
- Heavy galvanized sheet-steel construction. Water- and weather-tight decks.
- The Kay-Gee weigher elevator is of belt and bucket construction.

Alberta Public Opinion Backs Ottawa In Korean Crisis

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

With one hundred million dollars slated for defence, and the dispatch of Canadian ships and planes to the Korean war theater, Canada's national government has taken unprecedented steps to meet the international crisis.

Throwing its weight behind the United Nations decision to stop the Korean aggression, Ottawa's action is meeting with general approval throughout the country.

Public opinion in Alberta is as solidly behind the government's action as in other parts of the country.

Ceilings have been lifted on the strength of the military forces, and a call has gone out to enlist in all three branches of the service.

The $100,000,000 injection into the defence economy, which will consequently step up industrial production and reduce unemployment will bring 1950's defence budget to about $525,000,000.

The $10, 000, 000, 000 Truman has asked Congress for will in addition be partly spent in Canada, through the joint military program shared by Canada and the U.S.

On a population basis, the Canadian fund for new defence re-

America's per capita basis.

irements is slightly in excess of So far, three Canadian destroyers and the RCAF's number 426 Transport Squadron (an eastern group) are the only forces from this country that have been dispatched to Asia.

No ground forces will be sent, "at this stage" as they are needed to maintain defensive bases in Canada.

Present strength of the Canadian services is about 47,000 men, and the call has gone out for an additional 8,000 volunteers for the regular forces.

Ottawa wants men between the ages of 17 and 29 for active service to commission more fighting ships in the navy, to increase the strength of the armored corps and the infantry, and to provide additional air crew and ground crew in the RCAF.

Volunteers are also required for the reserve forces, to increase the strength of all reserve units of the three services and to attain active force standards of proficiency through intensive spare-time training.

As outlined in this newspaper last week, Ottawa hopes to build up a nation-wide corps of citizen soldiers for any emergency, and the reserve forces are the natural vehicle for this project.

On the financial front, experts are telling the public to get ready for a boost in taxes next year, and if for possible rationing if—and only if—the war threat grows worse and isolated instances of hoarding increase.

It is hinted that the government's plan for increased taxation—should such a step be necessary—is simply a "pay - as - you-go." This is favored rather than a war loan, which would mean an expansion of the national debt, now totalling about $11 billions.

Crucial international developments of the past few weeks have brought the world closer to the brink of actual conflict than at any time since the last war.

Western governments are hoping that their whole-hearted support of the United Nations will show that there exists a strong international body ready to put teeth into its pleas for peace.

Alberta Crop Prospects Improve

Recent rains have improved Alberta's grain outlook. Grain of this height at this time of the year is rare indeed. This picture was snapped on a southern Alberta farm where irrigation schemes added to ideal weather to produce an early crop.

Oil Boom Changes Face Of Small Alberta Town

What happens to an isolated community when an oil boom sweeps the country? Change and development of Redwater, paralleling the growth of the Alberta oil industry, is an outstanding example of what oil can do to a little town.

Two years ago it was a forgotten town on an all but forgotten rail line. When the first well was spudded in October, 1948, oil workers poured in, and shacks and huts of every variety sprung up amidst the swollen community.

As the search broadened out, permanent buildings began to replace the shacks. Modern concrete office and homes began to go up, a village council was formed, along with a Board of Trade and a Women's Institute.

Today there's two theaters, a newspaper, the Redwater Review, a fine big hotel, and countless new stores and buildings.

And next week Redwater is celebrating the commemoration of the first oil discovery, the town is staging a gala two day festival, featuring the crowning of a queen and a $550 baseball tournament.

The building boom has resulted in such erections as the big new food locker plant, a modern steel building for an oil supply company, a $40,000 high school, and dozens of homes.

Concrete sidewalks are also being installed in the oil town, with cement now being poured along the town's main street.

With nearly 600 oil wells already producing in the region, some think that the boom may not last, as it's estimated there's only resources for another 200 wells.

Although already some of the drilling crews are moving away, Redwater isn't likely to wither away like Turner Valley towns.

There's enough oil under Redwater to keep 800 wells producing for years and it looks as if the town is going to settle down to a comfortable rate of growth as a small industrial city.

Greatest Canadian

Regardless of how individual Canadians rated Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King during his life time, the history books will for years to come, accord him the title, Greatest Canadian.

The former prime minister was great because of his personal qualities. A student of public affairs, he was from the very start an ardent student of sociology and worked during his lifetime to better the social conditions of his fellow Canadians. Greater advance in social reform was made during his participation in the public life of Canada than in all other periods combined.

Mr. King proved his greatness in his ability to hold together the Canadian people, scattered over thousands of miles, and made up of diverse racial origins and religious beliefs. No other nation on earth is so scattered geographically, or gathered from so many different parts of the world, yet so united in aims and purposes today.

The man who held the prime ministership longer than any other man was great, too, because of his successful political career. A Liberal through and through, he preached and practised the gospel of Liberalism throughout his lifetime, without lapsing into reactionary measures so common today among political leaders.

A practical leader, this Greatest Canadian was a man of high ideals. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and on at least one public occasion reminded his listeners that he was a "continuing" Presbyterian. Yet he participated freely with other religious groups in their conventions and celebrations, when it was possible to accept their invitations, and as in many other ways proved his tolerance and understanding and respect for the beliefs and opinions of others.

Idealistic, he returned to French Canada the mantle of leadership which he had received from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when he laid it down in November, 1948, by wisely choosing Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

He served Canada well. He was a great Canadian. We are certain that, of all the tributes being paid to him, he would hold none other tribute so dearly.

The Rains Came

Not too soon, perhaps, and maybe just a little late to do the most good, but just the same we're glad that "the rains came".

Here in Alberta we have just about every type of topography from flat plains, to rolling foothills to mountain majesty and back to rugged bush land and forests. Wherever we live in the favored province, we need rain, at the right time each year.

Perhaps if government could control rainfall it would be a good thing. All we would have to do to get a "million dollar downpour" would be to put the pressure on our hard-pressed M.L.A. Then we could stand back and grumble that the rain storm should have come at night instead of during the day. We could complain that it rained too hard or not enough. The government spoiled the picnic or stampede.

Fortunately for all politicians, God Himself holds the rains in His hands, to release as He sees fit. We can be thankful that not often has the rain blessing been entirely withheld when we needed it most. And we did nothing to get them.

We could help things a bit, though, with irrigation. The snows fall on the mountain tops from September to June and then are melted and rush down from the Rockies to the seas. By taking this otherwise wasted water and spreading it among crops and gardens, the Alberta farmer can grow bigger and better crops, with less rainfall.

At best, irrigation is not a perfect substitute for rain. But like insurance it's a good thing to have when you need it.

By T. W. PUE

One of the most famous phrases coined in the advertising world had something to do with diamond-studded millionaires driving around in the American version of Rolls-Royce with a look of smug satisfaction on their well-fed faces.

The Packard Motor Car Company has sold more Packards since 1902 by saying "Ask the man who owns one." Nevertheless the Ford Motor Company which sold flivvers for as little as $395.00 a piece made more money than Packard ever banked with $10,000,000 automobiles.

Henry Ford was a genius in his own rights, by acting on a very simple principle: the idea that the people of the world want cheap, dependable transportation when they buy an automobile. But Henry Ford is dead and his successors in the Ford and other Canadian and U.S. companies have largely forgotten the early principles which made their industry great.

T. W. Pue

They are still offering for sale Canadian automobiles that, in sheer excess weight and luxury outclassed the limousine you used to ask the man who owns one (whatever it was you asked him).

The sooner Canadian manufacturers get back to a low-priced, four cylinder car, selling for about $1,200.00, the sooner Canadian people will stop buying other cars. We don't want any embargoes on shipment of low-priced autos from Britain.

But I seriously doubt if our Canadian firms will wake up in time. They are still lulled to sleep down in Windsor and Detroit by the greatest demand for new automobile units of all time. Their arguments go like this: Why make small units for $1,200.00 when we can sell all we can make at $2,400.00?

Meanwhile, however, Austin and Morris cars are capturing the six-cylinder market with four-cylinders and making a future four-cylinder car market for years to come.

It's a Matter of Habit

The things we humans do, we do mostly because of habit. We keep on doing the same old things in the same old way, day after day, just because we're used to doing those things.

We don't usually change habits until we're forced into it. Consequently it took a war, an automobile shortage and sterling devaluation to get most of us to even consider driving a small British car. But now that we've been FORCED into the habit of driving small cars, something just as drastic will be required to force us out of the habit.

Unable to get a new Canadian car, although our name was on dealers' lists in Edmonton since 1947, we bought a new Morris Minor from Mill Creek Motors whose headquarters is in South Edmonton. Right off the bat we saved $800.00 on the purchase price of our new car. And no one told us we had to buy a lot of useless accessories to get possession. We didn't have to wait three years. It took two days to select the car we wanted and take delivery of it.

It seats four full-grown persons and baggage comfortably. We get upwards of 45 miles to the gallon and actually drove 200 miles for $1.93 in gas.

Instead of paying $6.00 to fill the tank it costs us $2.10 and with that we can go just as far.

Alberta license fee for our 1946 Hudson is $28.00. The Morris Minor costs $10.00.

Oil consumption is negligible but when we change oil it takes $1.25 instead of $2.50.

The Morris Minor rides as comfortably as any other car I've driven and cruises easily at 55 miles per hour.

The battery is as big as the motor, which means we have plenty of electric power on tap at all times to start in any weather.

Just figure out, as I have done, the savings and advantages of driving a small car and make your own comparisons. If you can overcome your old habit of driving a limousine when all you need is a car, you too will probably wonder when Canadian auto manufacturers will announce their new four-cylinder "minor" models.

Scriptural Meditations

By Ainsley Blair

Through nature and revelation, through His Providence, and by the influence of His Spirit, God speaks to us. But these are not enough; we need also to pour out our heart to Him. In order to have spiritual life and energy, we must have actual intercourse with our Heavenly Father.

Our minds may be drawn out toward Him; we may meditate upon His works, His mercies, His blessings; but this is not, in the fullest sense, communion with Him. In order to commune with God, we must have something to say to Him concerning our actual life.

Point of No Return

COMMENT FROM THE PRESS

Oil Monies For Oil Roads

From Edmonton Journal

Complaints about travelling conditions following recent rains indicate that improvement work is needed on some of the roads in Edmonton oilfield areas. For the sake of both oil operations and tourist travel, the necessary highways and roads in these areas should be kept in good condition, and the provincial government might well devote to this end some of its treasury returns from the sale of oil right.

In just over two and a half years these returns have reached the enormous sum of more than $47,000,000. Slightly more than half of this amount has been received during the first half of this year. More than $41,000,000 of it has come from Redwater auction of crown rights, and approximately $2, 630, 000 from Woodbend township sales.

It would be eminently fair to allocate part of this money to needed improvement and maintenance of oilfield highways and roads, especially since some roads in the Redwater area are reported to give particular cause for complaint. It would seem only just, too, to assist the municipalities concerned, in this part of their road work, for traffic on their main roads, at any rate, is abnormally heavy and it is two province-wide industries, oil and tourist travel, that are responsible for the extra load.

Probably a moderate amount of additional work would bring the roads up to scratch. Moreover, maintenance on some of them—those leading into specific areas that are bound to be drilled out in due course and left to produce through pipelines—would not have to be continued indefinitely. Thus the required sums would be relatively small.

Safety In Flying

From Financial Post

Grant W. G. McConachie, president, Canadian Pacific Airlines, used an arresting illustration to demonstrate flying passenger safety records in an address to the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association. He said that if a baby were put into a plane at birth and were flown continuously at 200 miles per hour, it would be 57 years old before it experienced its first crack - up. He added that a man could stand 200 degrees temperature for 33 minutes and 240 degrees for 23 minutes—provided he wore long underwear. We'd imagine, though that his breathing would be in short pants.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON:

Samuel Ranked as One Of Bible's Greatest Men

Next to Moses, Samuel is considered the greatest leader of Israel.

Coming upon the scene when religious and national life was at a low ebb, his influence and deeds laid the solid foundations upon which the early kings of the monarchy accomplished the greatest expanse and glory of their people's history.

Samuel was a wonderful character, a man willing to serve, and a righteous servant both of Jehovah and his people.

He was the prayer-child of his mother, Hannah. From birth he had been dedicated to the divine service.

Early in boyhood he was presented to religious duty, left in charge of the prophet Eli, who trained him. Performing the daily tasks connected with the temple and the care of the aging priest, Samuel was kept busy, but at the age of twelve Jehovah directly touched his own heart making him a mouthpiece and using him for serious condemnation.

There was much in Eli's life which was pathetic. He seems to have been in many ways a good, kind old man, but he failed to properly train his sons, Hophni and Phineas. Eli served faithfully as a judge, but his sons placed in the same high office, were faithless and corrupt. For this dereliction, Eli and his household were condemned but the humble submission of the old priest to the punishment of God raises considerable doubt as to his ultimate harm.

As Samuel grew into manhood, the Israelites met with severe disaster. The Philistines were aggressive and defeated them. Thinking to help themselves, the leaders decreed that the sacred ark should be brought into the next battle, hoping its presence would be as effective as at Jericho with Joshua.

But, all in vain, Jehovah demonstrated again that it was righteousness in human hearts, not formal worship, that he expected. The Philistines captured the ark, killed Eli's two sons, and for twenty years oppressed the Israelites. Eli, after forty years of service, died when the news of the great defeat reached him. Samuel's influence grew during the occupation and ascendancy of the Philistines. At Ramah he set up an altar and worshipped the true God, not Baal or Astart, fostered by the invaders and accepted by many of the Jews. Finally, He called the Israelites to gather at Mizpah, having in the meantime succeeded in bringing many of them back to Jehovah and his worship. The enemy gathered and a great battle took place. Victory crowned the efforts of the children of Israel, and with it Samuel's power and authority became nationally recognized.

As prophet and judge, Samuel ruled over the people of Israel until late in life. He established the circuit, going from Ramah to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpah to hold court and to judge for his fellow prophets, in order that the young men might be taught the true faith and proper practices.

Throughout his active life Samuel was a pillar of right-living, honesty and piety, winning the veneration and respect of the people throughout the land. Strange to say, he made the same mistake in life as Eli—he failed in the rearing of his sons.

Finally, the Israelites complained, not of Samuel but of his sons. They were greedy and corrupt. The people demanded a king like other nations, and came to Samuel with the demands. Following the advice and dictates of Jehovah, Samuel granted the request, seeking the best possible man for the place. Before doing so, Samuel warned the Israelites of the many dangers and hardships of monarchy, an analysis of the faults of this form of government, which remains true unto this veneration and respect of the uel continued to exercise a great influence over events, however, for the people respected his righteous life and honest character.

In finally presenting the new king to the Israelites, Samuel made a noteworthy farewell address, fit to rank with the greatest similar communications. Recalling his lifetime in their midst, he challenged any to show that he falsely acted or wrongfully took their goods. As a public official Samuel recognized his public trust, he had not accepted graft or neargraft. In any government self-seeking officials are dangerous, when they use their positions selfishly. We need more recognition of the obligation of public office and the increased responsibility to the trust it represents.

New Lions President Named At Convention

CHICAGO. — Herbert C. Petry, Jr., Carizzo Springs, Texas, is the new president of the International Association of Lions Clubs (Lions International). He was elected by unanimous vote at the 33rd annual convention of the association held in Chicago last week. Petry succeeds Walter C. Fisher, Queenston, Ont., Canada.

HERBERT PETRY

The convention concluded one of the most successful years in the history of Lions International, according to the report made by Melvin Jones, Chicago, Illinois, Secretary-General and founder of the Association. He reported the addition of 806 new Lions Clubs and 21,415 men to the roster of the association during the 12-months period ended June 30, 1950, for a total of 8,055 clubs and 402,841 members.

He stated also that during the fiscal year Lions Clubs were established in two additional countries, England and Denmark. Lions International, he added, is the largest, strongest and most active service club organization in the world, with Lions Clubs in 28 countries on five continents.

Letter to Louisa

Old Enough to Work But Not to Enjoy Life

Dear Louisa—I am going on eighteen years of age and my parents treat me like a child, although I have two sisters younger than I am.

I work Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights after school and all day Saturday and yet when I ask to go out on a Saturday or Sunday night, they say that I may not go and that I am always anyway.

Sure I am always anyway but I am working. I have no pleasure at all and my life is very miserable. They are always complaining about the money I spend even though I spend only $1.00 a week for ice cream and other refreshments.

They refuse to let me go to dances or to movies as that costs too much and still I may not go on a date anytime and cannot travel with my girl friends. When I do go out, I have to be in by 9 or 9:30. I have my driver's license, but they never let me drive the car, even when they go along.

All the other girls, three and four years younger than I am have boy friends and go out on dates, but I cannot date or have a boy friend and yet they are complaining all the time. I feel like I am not wanted. What shall I do?

WONDERING

Answer:

Your parents are certainly acting in a ridiculous manner. Surely if you are old enough to be working out at night, you should be allowed a good part of what you make and some liberty to see your friends, whether they be boys or girls.

Some parents have the idea that they can protect a girl and keep her home by not allowing her to go with friends but this is one of the easiest ways of making her run away from home.

No girl is going to put up with such treatment long. As soon as she finishes school, she will get a job and move to some place where she can do as she pleases.

How much better it would be for both parents and daughter if the parents would try to make her life happier! Allow her money for the movies twice a week and let her have dates with nice boys. Certainly, they should not object desirable companions.

Wake up parents before it is too late! Try to make home pleasant for your children, so they will be satisfied to stay with you even when they grow older.

Alberta Forestry Tour Attracts Large Audiences

Annual forest conservation tour conducted by the Canadian Forestry Association in co-operation with the Alberta Forest Service is now visiting communities in the forested areas of the province. The meetings are attracting the largest audiences ever enjoyed on these tours.

Travelling by truck, a gift of General Motors of Canada, settlements and forest communities all across middle and northern Alberta are on the itinerary. To some points the forestry program brings to the people the only movies shown in the area during the year. With the splendid co-operation of the press and radio, local residents are attending for some miles around, with record numbers present. Often entire families walk in to the meeting, coming from 2 to 6 miles to attend.

Sound films show the value of Alberta's timber resources, how they provide employment, essential products, and in making a home for wild life, and a background for the tourist industry. The part forests play in regulating stream flow is stressed, as the future of irrigation in the province depends on a constant supply of water, and green forests are essential in providing adequate and permanent watersheds.

Association speakers stress the need for maintaining a balance of forests, on the weaker soils, when opening up northern areas to farm settlement. They emphasize that to destroy all forest resources will place a heavy handicap on the future prosperity of agriculture.

Meetings will be held at Grassland, Sept. 28; Plamondon, Sept. 29; Wandering River, Sept. 30; Lac la Biche, Oct. 2; and McMurray and Waterways, Oct. 19.

The narrow roads where two cars could barely pass without touching each other are being replaced by splendid wide highways on which six or eight cars can collide at once.

FAMILY FINANCES: According to a recent survey on family expenditure Mom may be losing her grip on the family purse strings!

The old axiom that women spend 85 per cent of the family budget just doesn't seem to be true any longer. Actually Mom spends 55 per cent of the amount, while Dad and the children spend the other 45 per cent. According to the statistics obtained, 85 per cent of the men help with the grocery shopping to some extent at least, while 20 per cent are responsible for all of it. Another interesting fact brought out, is that men buy one-third of the electrical appliances.

But maybe Mamma wants it that way. It takes one chore off her hands. It is true, too, that a meal can be prepared in the time it takes to make a trip to the store, providing of course that she doesn't let her cupboard get too much like Mother Hubbard's! And there isn't any reason why it should if we keep a list handy to let the rest of the family know just what is needed around the house.

Perhaps one reason more men are shopping is because of the shorter work week. Another one that the wily little homemaker knows, is that it gives the man of the house a better insight into the actual cost of those items which make that cost-of-living index soar. Would that they could do more about it! In any case it appears that most women welcome less grip on the grocery money when they obtain more understanding of where the food dollar goes.

Even if the food costs are high, they are still cheaper than doctor's and hospital bills. Good food goes a long way towards providing better health. We build strong bodies by means of what we put into them, just like a well built house needs good materials, so it won't warp or crack. We should be thankful, too, that we CAN get so many things when others in different parts of the world are unable to do so.

While we are handing out bouquets to the men for doing the shopping, it is not amiss to remind ourselves that we have a lot for which to thank our men folk! Do we realize that we would still be using the elbow-grease to get our clothes clean if it were not for them? And they have invented ALL of the appliances which we find so helpful in our daily routine. And they are not content with that. They keep on improving them, in order to make them suit us better. What a boon refrigeration, and pasteurization is to the daily housewife. Men are great for doing things the easy way! With their help, more and more of us are availing ourselves of an open-minded approach to the job in hand.

SHORT STORY:

A Dreamer's Holiday

It seemed hours since I had left the dreary outpost. The wind howled and raged, the dogs lagged, and I felt a drowsiness creeping over me.

"Mush Major, mush," I yelled into the blinding storm. I followed closely behind the provision-laden sled which was drawn by six of the forces' fastest huskies. My skis dragged heavily over the snow, leaving tracks which were immediately eaten up by the blinding storm.

A weight at my right hip reminded me that I had a job to do. I tried to think of other things as I plunged on and on into an endless eternity. Suddenly the dogs stopped. One of them howled—a piercing howl which set my nerves tingling. Without warning a pain ripped through my arm. Pistol shots cracked in the night. I grasped my own gun and fired blindly Pilot calling rear navigator—into the storm. Then I lunged forward into endless tons of snow. Down-down . . . down I went. Suddenly the ground came rushing up at a terrific rate. I hunched forward in the cockpit, grasped the rudder, shoved over the control stick and nosed the plane skyward. I yelled madly at the intercom, "Pilot calling rear navigator;

"Order Benson to close the bomb traps," I yelled to my copilot as I wired a "Mission Completed" to the air base. "Pilot calling all crew members—engines failing—bail out at once—assist rear gunner; Bail out immediately—" The plane swayed and my alarm increased as the indicator slid over to 2,000 then 500 and then down, down, down at a sickening speed.

When I regained consciousness everything was black. Dazedly I shoved the blankets off my head and crawled back into bed.

Trials Of An Editor

Getting out this paper is no picnic.

If we don't print jokes, people say we are too serious.

If we stick close to the office all day, we ought to be around hunting material.

If we go out and try to hustle, we ought to be on the job in the office.

If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate genius;

And if we do print them, the paper is filled with junk!

If we edit the other fellow's write-up, we're to critical;

If we don't, we're asleep.

If we clip things from other papers, we're too lazy to write them ourselves;

If we don't, we are stuck on our own stuff.

Now, like as not, some guy will say we swiped this from some magazine.

We did!

Beiseker Plays Acme In KIBA Semi-Finals

BEISEKER.—The first game of the KIBA semi-finals was played at Acme on Friday, July 21 with Beiseker winning by a score of 20-3.

Beiseker took an early lead in the game, and held the lead throughout. Two home-runs were hit by Harvey Uffelman, and several three-base hits too place. Six errors were made by each team.

Batteries for Beiseker—Leonard Schmaltz on the mound and Henry Reifsynder catching.

Acme—Kemmel and Cory on the mound and Keim catching.

Official umpire—Herman Lamle, Swallowell.

On Sunday, July 23, the KIBA games moved to Beiseker to finish the semi-finals between Beiseker and Acme by Beiseker winning two straight games in the two-out-of-three series. Score in this game was 14-13 for Beiseker.

Beiseker took the lead in the first inning by scoring three. Acme overcame the lead in the third inning, and held it until the ninth when Beiseker scored 4 to tie the game. This meant an extra inning.

The Beiseker pitcher allowed no runs and retired the first three batters in the first of the 10th. While Beiseker's first batter was struck out, the second batter came up with a three-base hit followed by Art Scheffelmaler with a single hit scoring Leonard Schmaltz to win the ball game.

Batteries:

Beiseker — Harvey Olsen and Leonard Schmaltz to Henry Reifsynder.

Acme—Rowlands to Keim.

Finals for the beautiful KIBA trophy now on display at Louis' Garage Ltd. will in all probability start this week-end between Beiseker and Keoma (top team of the league). Finals will be the same as the semi-finals with a 2-out-of-3 series.
